Today's Story

Goldman takes championship.

A Satire News Story By Jon

Congratulations to our own very own Madi Goldman, who has brought the WWE heavyweight championship to Sci-Tech East. After nine grueling matches against former heavyweight champ, Jason “The Train” Matthews. Madi “Focus Beast” Goldman was able to obtain an unchallenged win after she used her signature move “the pain snap” to pin Mr. Matthews for a complete ten seconds, after that she screamed “POWER OFF! !!” and began her victory celebration. Mr. Matthews was powerless to stop her barrage of wrestling moves. Last week we caught up with her before the match, where she stated in a thick Russian accent “ I MUST BREAK HIM” and “SOON I DEFEAT REAL CHAMPION”. While intimidating, it should be pointed out that Madi has never been to Russia and is likely using the accent to startle her foes. Little is known about Madi’s training regiment, but she has been seen tearing dictionaries, bench pressing cars and crushing bricks. When asked about her future goals, she has stated “I FIGHT TO WIN, FOR ME. FOR ME!” and began smashing various walls and nearby furniture. After the big win, she announced her new “space punch” initiative focused on attempts to find extra-terrestrial life and wrestle them. While unsuccessful as of yet, she hopes to discover and win the galactic title if it exists. Here at the Sci-Tech Times, we hope she crushes all her foes.
