New Dimension Found at Sci-Tech

A Satire News Story By Ryan

Earlier today, Devon-X accidentally opened a wormhole to an alternate dimension: Dimension-Pi. When the Sci-Tech Times asked for a quote to describe his experiences, he had only this to say "shigaon!" Devon-X went on to say "The President of the U.S was a pig named James; the U.K had sunk to the bottom of the Ocean; Africa is an ocean where rain is hated, not blessed; Australia is in the middle of the Mediterranean Sea; there are no taxes; and there is free healthcare for all, called CindyCare. Currently, the portal remains open inside of French. It seems likely that Devon-X will return to seek his counterpart, Devon-Y. He hopes to reprogram Devon-Y to help him keep Byfield from burning down. Joe is trying to close the portal to trap Devon-X in Dimension-Pi in a futile attempt to regain control of his robot army. We here at the Sci-Tech Times are certainly intrigued by Dimension-Pi and hope to bring you a more detailed report soon.

Bonus Satire Story By Jon

Ok, let's do this one last time, my name is Mason Sirois I live in Brooklyn, and I am the one and only spider-man I was bitten by a radioactive, genetically altered, slightly salted deep-fried Spider. 'I've been fighting crime for the last 20 years as the amazing Spider-man. No matter how many hits I take or get knocked down, I keep getting back up again. 'I've fought villains, found the love of my life, starred in a Hollywood blockbuster, lost a lot of money on a times square restaurant, and saved the world a few times. At the end of it all, 'it's been a wild ride. Recently I found myself in an alternate universe, with several different Masons, each one more different than the last, one looked like the guy who played in Seabiscuit and that dude from the social network. We all had to teach a young mason how to instruct video game design at Sci-Tech, and after we defeated an embodiment of Electronic Arts, I got to return home.
