A Satire News Story By Ari

In a weird discovery, several campers at "Sci-Tech Canada" have discovered that their camp is not located in Toronto as previously thought. It has been found that the exact location of Sci-Tech Canada is Tashkent, Uzbekistan. At the same time, this discovery was made, it was also found that not only did their camp director know about their actual location, but had been lying about it this whole time. "I can't believe that she would lie to us like that," said 13-year-old camper, Amir, "this whole time, my parents thought I was in Canada, not Uzbekistan!" In the wake of this major scandal, the Sci-Tech "Canada" camp director, Lena Kalinin, has been fired and forced to be a fine of 150 million S'om (the Uzbekistani dollar) (or $17400 U.S dollars) to cover the cost of airline tickets for her campers.
