
Today's Story

Breaking News: Camper From Elion 1 Finds Group Known As "The Crab Cult"

A Satire News Story By Craig

Yes - you heard that right, the crab cult. Zach Weiskopf of Elion 1 created this wonderful cult. Various campers from Elion 1 (including this reporter) have joined the crab cult. Basically what we do is we go walking around Sci-Tech which playing "crab rave" and doing a crab-like dance. This cult was created on July 25, 2019. Zach prefers to be called "Lod ClickClack." Watch out for future raids, and join the crab cult.

Pirate Discovered At Sci-Tech

A Satire News Story By Shalom

After multiple accusations of theft and piracy, counselor Gabe Harper has declared himself King of All Pirates. During Session 2, Gabe as rumored to have pirated Minecraft and premiere pro on two non-consecutive occasions. Further investigations confirmed these rumors, which Gabe has now fully embraced. Now calling himself "Gabe, King of The Seven Seas," he has taken credit for multiple other heists including, the heist of Lake Rosie, all of the maple syrup from Sci-Tech Woods, pure tetanus from the tetanus machine, and most notable: two desserts at every dinner. Furthermore, many halls are even missing due to Gabe's hijinks; including the mythical Katz 4 ½, Sagan Pi, Baer 0, Elion ½, Rosie 3, and the other 12 Ramons. Jay-Nor as already stated that she wishes to recruit Gabe for her army so he can use his stealth to take all the air conditioning units from Sci-Tech South. We here at the Sci-Tech Times are neutral in our opinion of Gabe's conquest, mostly because we are all just baffled.